

MINI-POSTER: Sports as an Example Domain for Collection of Personal Information

Data is easy to collect – harder to use and understand

Topics to further reflect on:

- Data is individual and contextual
- Is data always objective and true?
- The subjective experience is highly important for the individual – How can data support that?
- Can we create "new" measures of performance?

Stina Nylander & Jakob Tholander